

How to create mobile-friendly websites

ui.martin

Various studies indicate that more and more people use websites via mobile devices.

This is the reason why it is worth taking care of appropriate user experience and creating mobile-friendly websites.

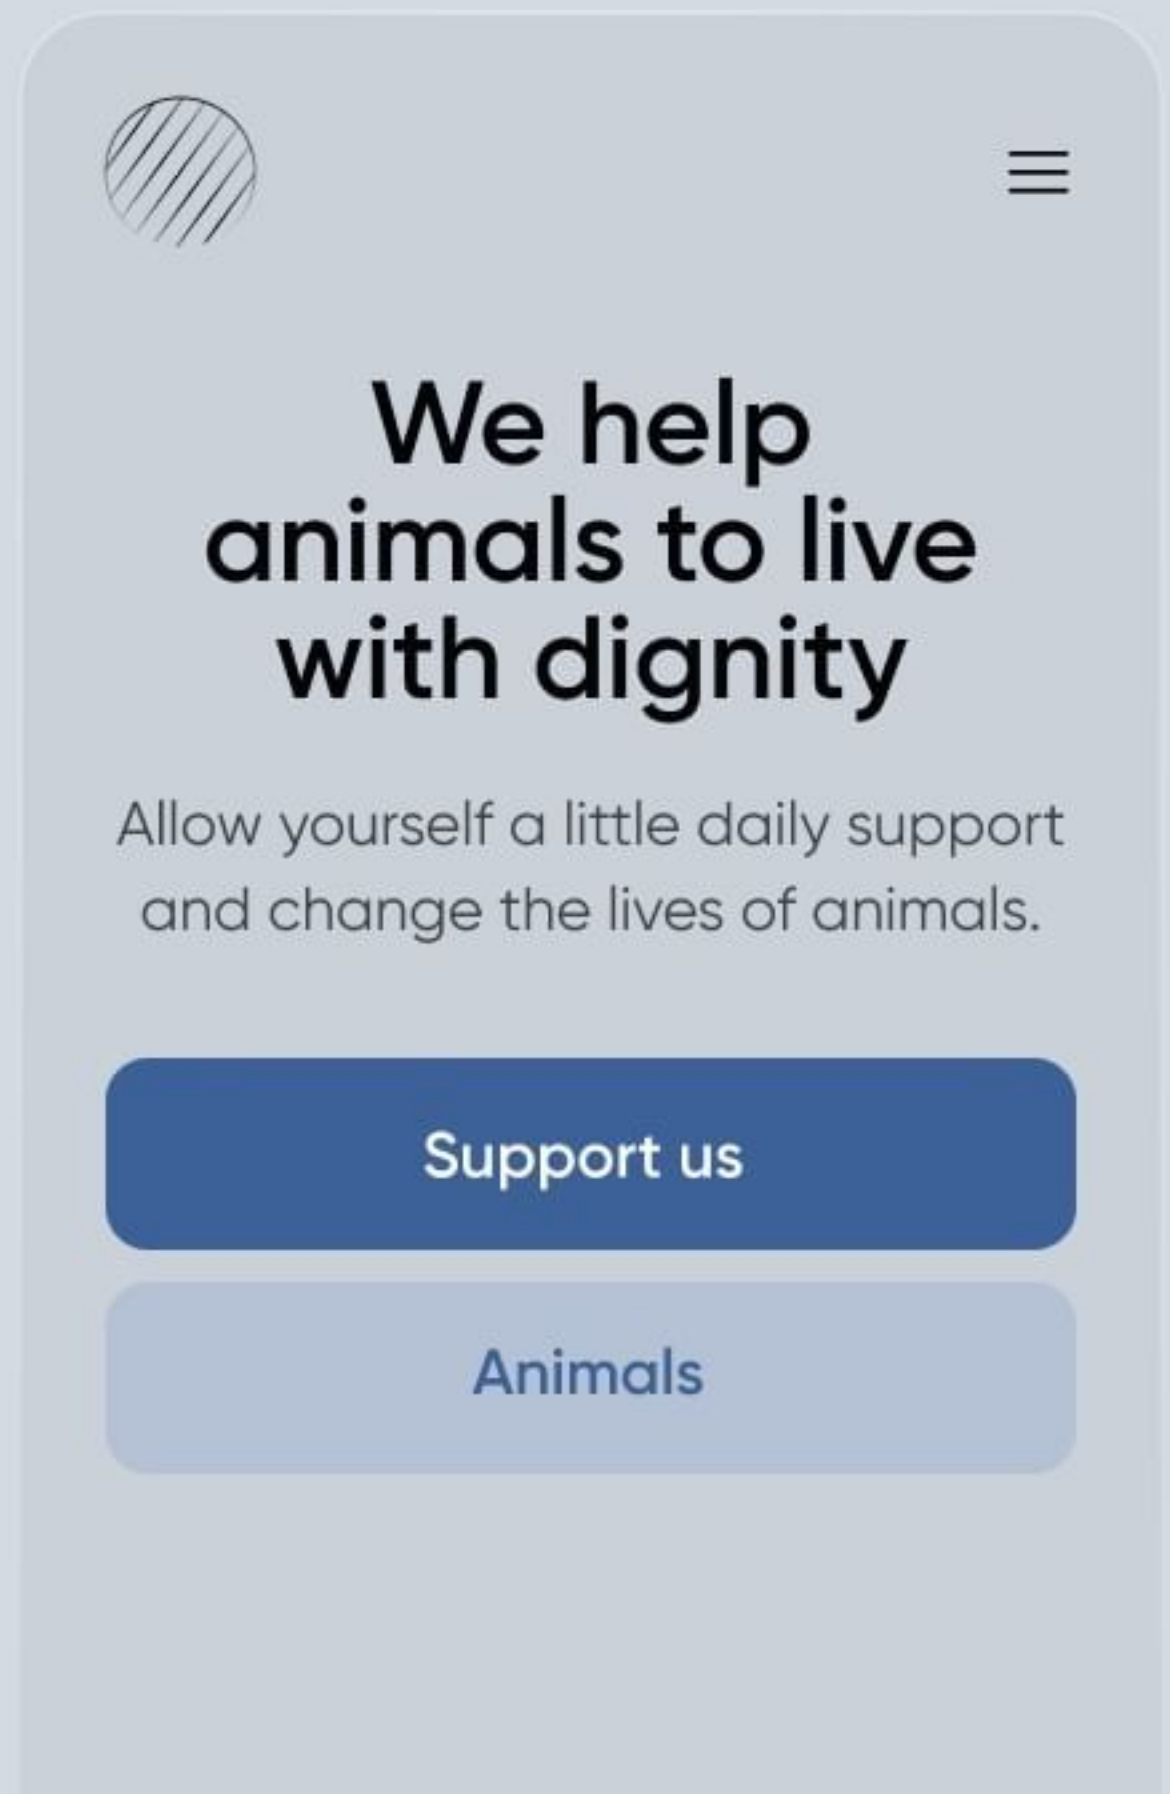

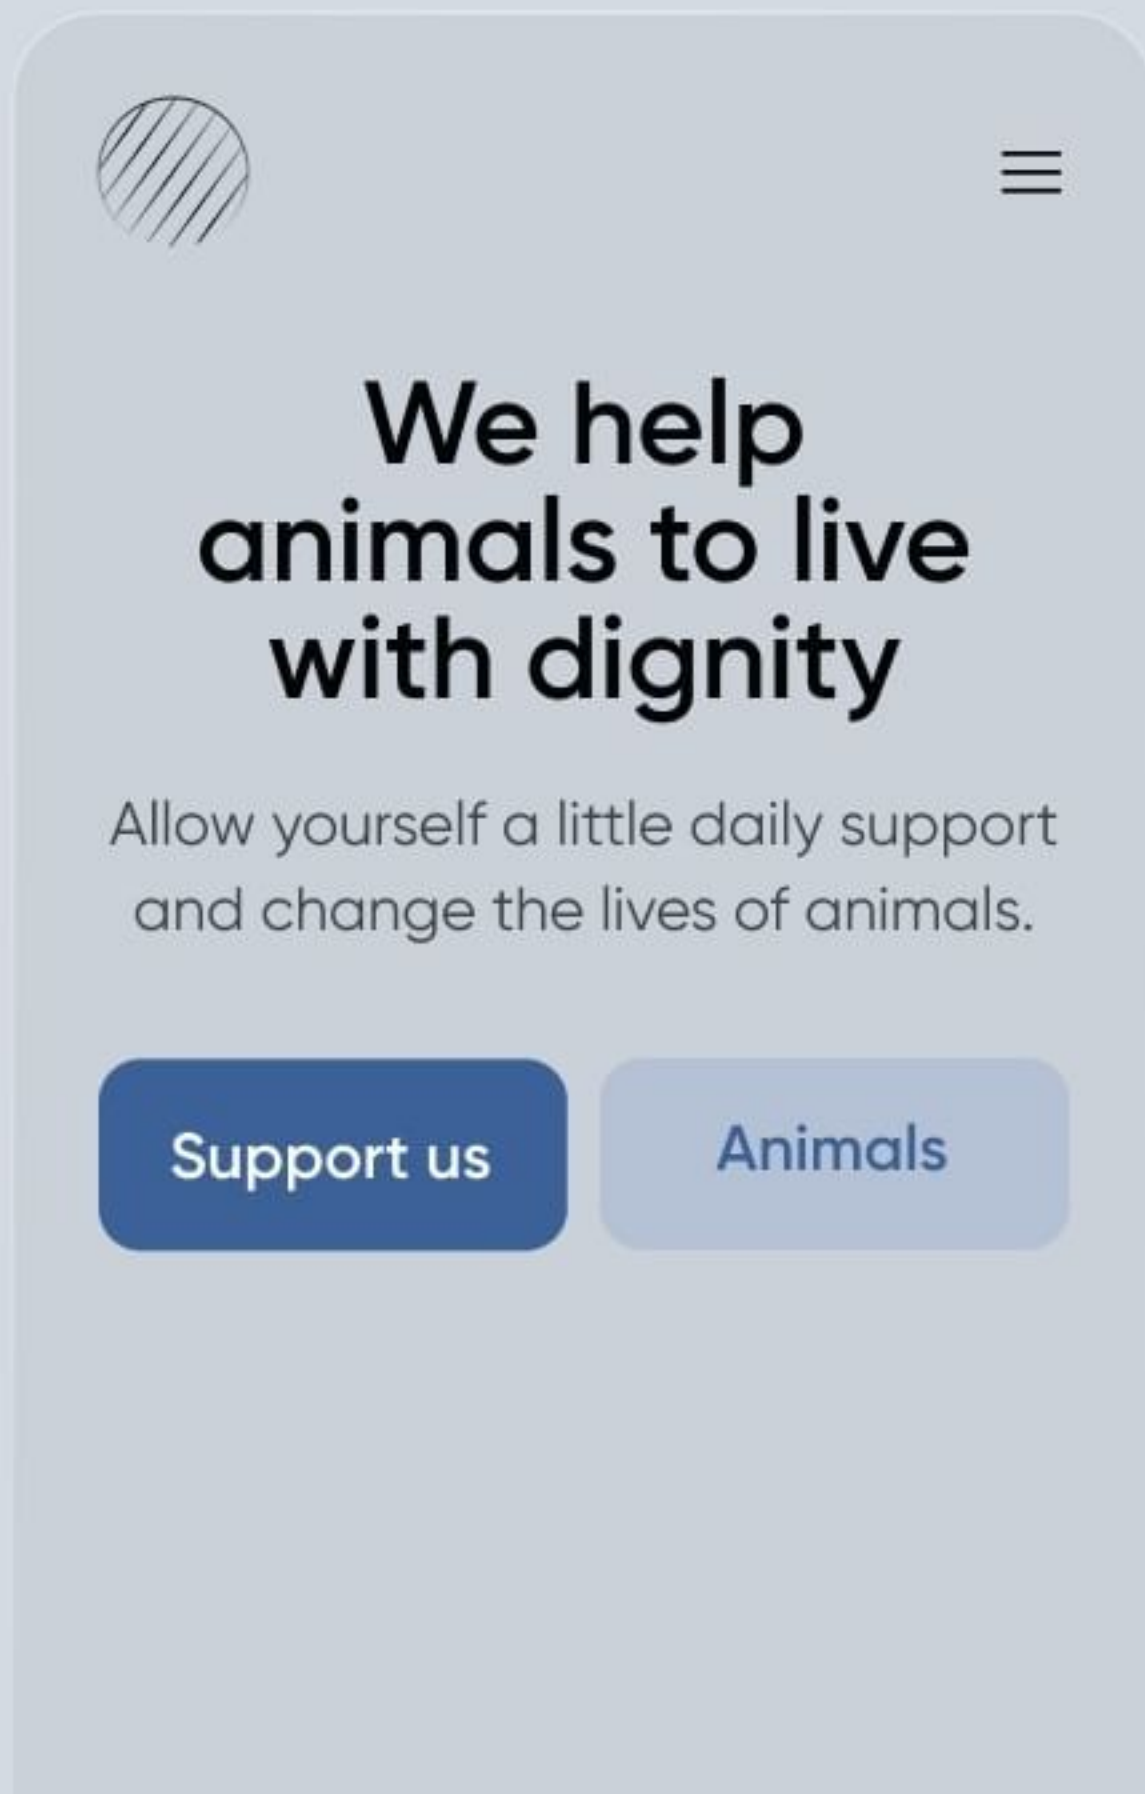

Here are some tips on how to achieve this.

Save for later

Better button positioning

The vertical arrangement of the buttons keeps them within the thumb area. In addition, the button area is larger, which makes them easier to click.

Visible possibility of swiping

Some sections require a swipe to reveal their contents. However, the elements must overlap the screen so that the user is aware that he can act.

Smaller navbar

Adjust the navigation bar so that it takes up less on the phone screen, which itself is small, and at the same time for items to be easily clickable.

Hidden content

Hiding less relevant or too long information reduces the length of your website. In addition, users can more easily browse the site in search of interesting content.

Clickable contact methods

Mobile users love the quick communication options to get information anytime. Therefore, make the phone number clickable to take down the user's effort.

Size of interactive elements

One of the disadvantages of mobile screens is the difficulty of clicking on interactive elements.

Therefore, make sure they are large enough to be easily clickable (minimum 44px high).

Large & readable texts

Content is a large part of most digital products, so to make it easier for users to scan information, it is worth ensuring the appropriate text size (not less than 12px) and a legible font.
